

Getting Started with

The Washington Post

What is The Washington Post?

The Washington Post is an American daily newspaper published in Washington, D.C. It is the most-widely circulated newspaper within the Washington metropolitan area, and has a large national audience. Now, your Bloomfield Township Public Library card now allows you access to the Washington Post online. Here's how to start:

Getting Started

- Visit btpl.org/washingtonpost and click the blue "Click here to get started with the Washington Post outside the library" link.
- Enter your email and check the box to agree to the Washington Post's terms.
- You now have a 7 day pass to access the Washington Post online.
- After 7 days have passed, you may renew your access by following the link in step 1 and reregistering your email address.

Reading Today's Paper

To read today's edition of the Washington Post, scroll to the bottom of the page and click the "Today's Paper" link in the "Get The Post" column.

Additional Help

If you have questions or need additional help, please call us at 248-642-5800 or email us at askadult@btpl.org.